CALAS AERONAUTS—IN SEA AND CANAL.

North East France, Dec. 21.

Little, one of the greatest manufacturing towns of France, will soon be freed entirely from the hands of the enemy.

On the 21st of December, the 3rd Corps, commanded by the "Duke of Brunswick," entered the town of Calais, and a brave fight was fought, the enemy being driven back, but scurrying to the enemy's back.

On our extreme left, hundreds of prisoners have been taken within the last few days.

A number of German marines held a farm which was taken by storm by the French.

A great number of the enemy died fighting, and the remainder, though outnumbered, declined to surrender. Finally, the French used their field, being both to slaughter them like so many cattle, and had to bin the surviving German marines with rope-before they could be taken to the rear as prisoners.

Here are a few incidents of the fighting of the last few days. At C—two battalions of British troops, numbering not more than 1,800, had to meet the repeated attacks of over 10,000 Germans, and kept them back for two whole days until support came up and counter-attacked.

One of the best shots in our Army during the 42 hours of almost continuous fighting had a sort of battle all to himself. Hidden in a clump with two rifles, and a brave boy acting as loader, he picked off over 120 of the enemy.

Seeing like this, of course, the chief commander when the hostile trenches are close to each other.

A Fusilier the other day was in an advance trench when he spotted looking out of the window of a shell-plant on the edge of a German rifleman. For two days they eyed each other, and every glass meant an exchange of shot.

Finally, this strange duel was ended by the Fusilier shooting his enemy just as he was leaning out of the window to fire.

Yesterday Calais was rather excited by the arrival of a "Globe" which tried to break through in the central station; but dropped one bomb in the sea and another in the canal, neither doing any harm.

A Natural
Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S
FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of "Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

A Luxury to the Man of Taste

GERMAN VANDALS AT AN AMERICAN'S CHATEAU.WHOLESALE PILLAGE AND DESTRUCTION.

An American gentleman resident in France has sent to the Press an extraordinary account of the barbarous conduct of German troops at the chateau near Meaux at which he resided. The name of the man in question is the Chateau du Fend des Forêts, and it is situated at Reims-en-Mulden, in the Department of the Oise, ten miles from Meaux, twenty-five miles from Chantilly, and a similar distance from Compiègne, and thirty-eight miles from Paris. The writer says:

"The English arrived at the chateau on Wednesday, 27th January, and out of respect for the three American flags conspicuously displayed, the officers did not enter the chateau, but slept in the three chalet-like buildings, in the out-buildings, in the park, and elsewhere.
The English officers, being greatly fati-gued, asked our head gardener if it was possible to have a bottle of good wine.
The gardener answered that the American proprietor had the key of the wine-cellar, but that he himself had some excellent wine, which he offered. It was accepted, and the officers were quite satisfied.

"The next day, September 3rd, as the Germans were approaching in great numbers, the English left, without causing any damage whatever to our property.
The Mayor of Reims, the town publican, and many others who remained informed me on my return to Reims that the Germans arrived on the 3rd in great numbers and occupied our chateau, as well as those of the Mayor and others.
From that date to the 6th, when they were pushed back toward Soissons and Reims by the Allies. They also testified that the three American flags were torn down by the Germans on arriving—a large one from the front of the chateau and two smaller ones from the two entrances.

"No words can describe the condition inside the chateau, of the lands, the allies, and the wooded park after the Germans had left. In fact of the many thousands of dollars worth of personal property there is not enough left of value to pay transport to Paris and commission on sale. All the armchairs, sideboards, vases, writing-desks, cupboards in nineteen bedrooms and elsewhere, were opened by bayonets or heavy tools, and all broken in many pieces or ruined. All articles taken from them were either broken, torn up, destroyed or taken away.
All objects of art of value were taken away.
All genuine silver, such as tea and coffee services, dining-room services, gold and silver dressing-tables, silver mirrors and candlesticks, were taken away.
All that remained were a gold glove-stretcher, a silver nailbrush cover (flattened out and destroyed), and a candlestick broken in three pieces, and some plated silver. All table and other glassware, all of a large pharmacian stock, perfumes, etc., were taken or smashed into small bits. All ancient lace, bedspreads, lace curtains, lace pillow-cases, and various pieces of ancient lace, as well as household linen of every sort, were used for the wounded, to wrap around the dead before burying, torn up, or taken away.

"Nineteen bedrooms in the chateau and outbuilding were furnished complete.
Not one blanket, sheet, pillow-case, or eiderdown covering, American or foreign, remained. All curtains were pulled down and soaked with blood and filth, lining torn out, destroyed, or used for covering the wounded. All bed and lounge mattresses, pillows, springs, and furniture were soaked with blood, medicine, or filth, etc. No clothing, shoes, or hats were left of over $10 value belonging to my wife, myself, or my eight servants. Some dresses of my wife were stashed with knives and left hanging in the fireplaces. Shoes were taken, or what were left had pieces cut out or crossed out in them across the toe-cap.

ALL WINE DRUNK.

"Out of over a thousand bottles of wines, including 1880, 1884, 1889, 1892, and 1893 champagnes, some in magnums and jerebans (containing four quarts), 1890, 1870 port, very old red, white and Rhine wines, besides old cognac, light-whisky, brandy, etc., not one bottle remained. Only broken and empty bottles were found strewn all over the chateau and park.

"The chateau and ground were strewn with indescribable filth. Pieces of rare, ancient Italian and Spanish lace were torn up and put to the basest uses or taken away. All household articles were broken, scattered around, or carried away.
Straw and hay were used for the many hundred soldiers sleeping on the lawn beside the chateau, and the wounded in the house. The stone walls are torn down or destroyed all around the chateau and park.
In about twenty large places, walls were pulled down to the ground for the soldiers to pass through.

"The three kitchen gardens of over three acres were partially destroyed, and part of the high wall torn down. All vegetables, American and foreign, from the three cultivated acres were taken or destroyed. Of the thousands of rare fruits not one remained.

"Many German dead were buried on the lawn near the billiard-room, and a German officer was buried a few yards apart, with a cross placed over his grave. Other Germans were buried in the chicken-run. Of all our prize hens and cocks, numbering about 150, not one was left.
All were either eaten or taken away.
Dead horses were buried on the lawn directly in front of the house and beside the pond, and many dead horses lay all around the place. All water was run off from the pond and every fish killed.
All vegetation, including rare red and blue pond lilies, was destroyed.

WANTON LARCENY.

"The pump in the river, which carries water to the chateau for the three bath-rooms, toilettes, gardens, lawns, etc., was destroyed and thrown into the river.
Flowers, including thousands of rare roses in bloom, were all destroyed. The fence septique and pump at the chateau were broken. Liquors, etc., were poured over the cloth of the billiard table.

"All our library of American, English, and French books, hundreds of photographs, all correspondence, papers, bills, etc., were torn up or scattered all over the place. Mirrors were broken all over the chateau. German names were written on doors; armour doors or panels were broken up and used for kindling wood, etc. Many cords of wood and much coal were burned by them in the chateau.

"Cardinals, ancient piece of gun armour, heads of guns, service guns, ancient fifteenth and sixteenth century pewter, old brasses, ancient fireproof devotions, an ancient piece of tapestry, old paintings and engravings, were destroyed or taken away. All ancient rug-pets and a few cheap rugs were left.
In fact, the ruin is complete, and our American flag, one attached to the front of the chateau, is being used for kindling.

"A British Lieutenant recently arrived at Savoie with six thousand tons of Welsh coal as a present from the British Navy to the Japanese Navy. Public attention having been called to the matter, the Vice-
Minister of the Navy is quoted as saying that the coal was a gift from the Allied Navy but not specially as a New Year compliment. This is not the first time, said the Vice Minister, that the Japanese Government had received such a present
from the British Navy and the latter had been given similar tokens of friendship by Japan.

"The 'Grottoes' will be at Canton on Monday, 8th February and Tuesday, 9th February, and will return to Hongkong, playing their last three performances at the Theatre Royal on Wednesday 10th, Thursday 11th and Friday 12th February, when three special popular performances will be given.

of the chateau and the other two to the two entrances, instead of being respected by the German officers and the army whose country is being represented by our Ambassador in France, were pulled down from the home of a peaceful American citizen living with his paralysed and bed-ridden wife in France. Their home and property are totally destroyed.
All that the Germans left behind as a payment for their invasion of an American home is one German pistol, two German rifles, and one-half of a German book."

THE DEVASTATION OF BELGIUM.

Estimate of Losses.

The "Tablet" publishes the following table compiled by M. Henri Masson, Avocat a la Cour d'Appel de Bruxelles, of the losses inflicted upon Belgium by the Germans during the first 82 days of the war.—The loss has, of course, since been enormously increased.—

Liege and its vicinity: Buildings, trade, and forts 25,016,000

Tirlemont: Trade and buildings 1,104,000

According to a Reuter's telegram from Amsterdam "Het Volk" learns from Hoboken a suburb of Antwerp, that the situation there is deplorable. All the workmen have returned but no work can be found for 20,000 unemployed and the distress is therefore extremely great, especially as there are no supplies of food.
Only one factory is showing activity, viz., that which has been transformed into a cemetery for the dead German soldiers.

A British Lieutenant recently arrived at Savoie with six thousand tons of Welsh
coal as a present from the British Navy to
the Japanese Navy. Public attention
having been called to the matter, the Vice-
Minister of the Navy is quoted as saying that the coal was a gift from the Allied
Navy but not specially as a New Year
compliment. This is not the first time,
said the Vice Minister, that the Japanese Government had received such a present
from the British Navy and the latter had been given similar tokens of friendship by Japan.

ENEMY AGAIN REPULSED.

LONDON, Feb. 4, 1.10 a.m.
The Paris evening communiqué says there has been nothing noteworthy to report except the repulse of three German attacks in Champagne—west of Perthes, north of Mesnil-les-Hurlus and north of Massiges. A fresh German attack at Bagatelle (Argonne) was repulsed on Tuesday night.

Fighting in the regions of Borjomi, Goumri, and Bolimoff continues. The Germans are strongly reinforced with over fourteen regiments, and masses of artillery are firing day and night. The fighting was particularly severe at Goumri, where we repelled attacks after the most sanguinary hand-to-hand fighting. The enemy's losses were immense.
In the Carpathians the fighting is growing more intense.

LARGE NUMBERS SURRENDERING.

LONDON, Feb. 4.
A telegram from Cape Town reports that Col. Kemp, one of the rebel leaders, and his commando, have surrendered.
A later Pretoria telegram says this commando numbers 43 officers and 486 burghers. There is reason to believe that a considerable number of the members of the Defence Force who rebelled will surrender at Uppington to-night.
LATER.
A further Pretoria telegram states that 4 officers and 100 burghers, part of Col. Maritz's rebel force, have surrendered at Kakamas, and more are expected to surrender in a few days. 500 surrendered with Kemp.

BRITISH DEFEAT THE TURKS.

A SUCCESSFUL RUSE.

LONDON, Feb. 4.
A Cairo telegram states that the Turks on Tuesday night attempted to cross the Suez Canal near Tuzun. They were allowed to bring their bridging material without molestation to the bank of the Canal. Then the British attacked and the enemy fled in disorder, leaving the whole of the material. Several of the enemy were drowned.
Another telegram from Cairo states that the Turks also delivered an attack on the Kantara front at daylight yesterday. They were repulsed and lost 16 killed and wounded and 40 prisoners. The British had three casualties.

AN ENGAGEMENT NEAR ISMALIA.

PARLIAMENT IN SESSION.

ONLY WAR MEASURES TO BE INTRODUCED.

LONDON, Feb. 3.
In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Asquith, after paying a warm tribute to the late Mr. Illingworth, moved a resolution appropriating the whole time of the House for Government measures. He said: "All our energies must be concentrated on the war. Every interest must be subordinated to that. It would be offensive to the good sense of the nation to proceed at such a time with controversial legislation. The Government will only introduce measures necessary for the prosecution of the war."
Mr. Donar Law, Leader of the Opposition, agreed that in the special circumstances the proposals were reasonable, and he would not oppose them, as the Government intended to act as the French and Canadian Governments had done, and treat the session as a war session.

She had been notified to the belligerents as a hospital ship, and, consequently, was protected from attack under the Hague Convention of 1907, the first signatory to which was the Kaiser.
Dr. Macnamara added that he was certain the civilised world needed no representation of ours to enhance its sense of horror at this wanton outrage. (Four cheers.)

WAR NEWS.

BURIAL PLACE OF 1,000 SOLDIERS.

How the Fallen Heroes Are Laid to Rest.

North-East France, Dec. 20.
For have they not died for country and kin? This morning, (wrote the special Correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle"), they were laid to rest—brave fellows—in God's acre on the summit of the hill rising near the cathedral—a white-splashed pinnacle in the centre of a landscape of rolling hills, with a segment of sea stretching away beyond.
The sun shined bright—the first time for many days—in a red and blue sky, lighted on a melancholy scene. No gun-carriage here, with Union Jack overhead, and the measured tread of martial music following the line to the graveside. Just two coffins, side by side in a deep trench awaiting the burial service, a small bunch of white flowers resting on one. One is a private of the Dublin Fusiliers, the other a corporal of the 2nd Essex. A Catholic chaplain comes, his robes reverberating as he walks the knaki beneath. Follows a firing party, who form up on each side of the trench, rifles reversed, heads down.
Quietly sobbing, there is the corporal's young widow, with her motherly woman who has lost a soldier son. Behind stand reverently the grave-diggers, two or three French people, and the writer. Suddenly in the clear air rings out the priest's appeal to the Almighty. He finishes, and the soldiers present arms. At once his place is taken by a Church of England priest, not the Chief Chaplain, Dr. Gwynn, Bishop of Exeter, for he has just left for the front.
Never have the beautiful, simple words of the burial service sounded more impressively, more poignantly in the writer's ears. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away." Once more the poor widow is shaken with sobs, for these last rites were for her beloved husband.
THE "LAST POST."
A pause—and then the melancholy-sweet cadence of the "Last Post" transporting the triumph of the British warriors gone to their Valhalla. The men in khaki again present arms, about turn, and depart. "No salvo. It is out of place here. An orderly still the lugubrious howling of some of the little dog. The crowsmen come to comfort the weeping women. The clouds fall.
Day by day has this sad scene been enacted, sometimes 20 burials at a time. Over a thousand British soldiers brought back from the field to die in the base hospitals are interred here. One day a tall soldier will be erected giving the names of these victims. Twenty-seven officers have their graves here, including a colonel of the 1st Middlesex. There are just small wooden crosses with numbers as an indication at present. Cross temporary crosses with names have been put up in memory of two captains and a lieutenant. Here and there are a few wreaths immortalised.
In the officers' section lies a nurse of the Red Cross, named Ethel Fearney. She, also, was given the soldiers' funeral described above.
Fifty yards away may be seen a small forest of little wooden crosses—only a small patch of ground—the Germans' sepulchre. Thirty-three of them have died in the hospitals here, including a captain and three lieutenants, and they were given the same honours and rites as our own men.
In a day or two there will be a new grave in the British officers' section—a young lieutenant, who passed away yesterday before his mother could reach him. He died as a soldier would. Was it not Carlyle who asked: "What better could a man do than die in the service of his country?"

MORE GERMAN PRISONERS FOR HONGKONG.

The "Mainichi" states that the British Government, having expressed its willingness to detain at Hongkong some of the German prisoners taken at Taichang, an officer and 55 men now at Taichang will be forwarded shortly to Hongkong.

THE COAL CARGO CASE.

Mr. Lewis, at the resumed hearing this afternoon of the charge against two Chinese of receiving 20 tons of stolen coal from the s.s. Konagata Maru, put his client, the second defendant, in the witness box.

Witness said that the coal they received as sweepings was usually sold at $5 a ton. They had only unloaded the coal from one lorry before they were arrested. The first lorry contained about two or three tons of large coal.

Witness added that he had two shares in the business. When he bought the coal he had no idea that it had been stolen. Mr. Lewis: In fact you got the coal from Mr. Shenton? Be very careful, Mr. Lewis. I have given you a lot of latitude and I have not objected.

Witness added that he got the coal from Mr. Shenton. He had purchased coal from him on five previous occasions and it contained large lumps.
Cross examined by Mr. Shenton, witness denied he had ever told Inspector Gordon that he had never had a previous transaction with the other defendant.
The coal that came from the Japanese boat was weighed in witness's shop, he said. He bought the coal from the first defendant.
Mr. Shenton suggested that the whole question of sale was bogus.
Mr. Lewis: That is what you suggest, you have to prove it.
The hearing was again adjourned.

Two Chinese firms were prosecuted before Mr. Hazell at the Magistracy this morning with an infringement under the Trade Marks Ordinance, in connection with "Star" single "Butterfly" socks, for which Messrs W. B. Loxley & Co., are agents.

Mr. Bowley, of Messrs. Denny & Bowley, who appeared on behalf of the plaintiffs, said it had been arranged that the whole of the goods should be handed over to the plaintiffs. In another similar charge, he asked that the case might be adjourned sine die.
The Magistrate made the necessary order and adjourned the second summons as requested.

SUMMARY COURT PROCEDURE.

Discovery on Oath Advocated.

Questions relating to the procedure of the Supreme Court were discussed and suggestions for its amendment this afternoon by Mr. P. W. Goldring who was appearing in a suit there.

Mr. Goldring's first suggestion was that the Court should give a ruling that in future all discoveries of documents should be made upon oath. There had been a great many difficulties in the past about the discovery of documents, and Mr. Haywood (the only other solicitor in Court at the moment) agreed with him that such an order, as he suggested would do away with them.

Mr. Haywood said he agreed. Now solicitors often had documents sprung upon them in Court which they had never seen or heard of before.

Mr. Goldring added that his suggestion had no reference to the action in which he was presently appearing, but he made it as a question of principle. He was quite sure that in many suits there had been instances in which in-position had been ordered by all the documents had not been produced at the time of inspection, but had been kept back till the last moment.

His Lordship remarked that there was a simple remedy for that: he would order an adjournment in such cases with costs against the party producing the documents when the case was in Court.

Mr. Goldring said the practice in the County Courts was for discovery to be made on oath, and the practice in this Court of discovery not being on oath was only a recent one. It had sprung up in the last two years and had been encouraged by solicitors in the Colony giving mutual discovery. That had led to inspection and not discovery.

His Lordship observed that he had been in the court over two years, and he knew what the practice had been for the past six years. He could not take any step in this matter without consulting the profession.

Mr. Goldring mentioned that he was not acting upon his own initiative, and asked his Lordship to recollect that the first time he sat as Puisne Judge he gave discovery by summons. Unless discovery on oath was made compulsory by a ruling by his Lordship it was useless. The difficulty was that in the Hongkong Court there were no Rules. It had been suggested that the Law Society should draft Rules for the Hongkong Courts. All agreed as to the difficulty regarding garnishees and interlocutory proceedings. They were done with so informally that they almost invariably ended in delay, which the small courts were designed to prevent. He thought there should be Rules in regard to interlocutory proceedings here.

His Lordship said it was laid down by Ordinance that solicitors could come into chambers at any time on any day and make an application; that met the case.

Mr. Goldring said he still thought there should be rules. They should also have a general summons for directions.

His Lordship said that was a different matter. He had always been in favour of that.

The extra cost of discovery on oath was mentioned by the Judge, and Mr. Goldring said it would not cost more than $10.

His Lordship expressed the opinion that there were many cases in which this additional cost would be a hardship. He thanked Mr. Goldring and Mr. Haywood for bringing the suggestions forward, and said he would do nothing regarding them until he had consulted the profession.

SUGAR SHARES.

CLAIM IN SUMMARY COURT.

In the Summary Court this afternoon the Puisne Judge heard an action by Messrs. David Silas (by Charles David Silas, his attorney) a clerk in the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd., versus Hugo C. Ehrenfeld, of the Hongkong H. Tel., the claim being for $175, the amount due on a transaction in China Sugar Refinery Co. Ltd. shares.

Mr. G. A. Haywood (of Mr. Leo D'Almeida's office) appeared for plaintiff, and Mr. P. W. Goldring (Goldring and Phillips) for defendant.

Mr. Haywood said the plaintiff was a stockbroker, and in April last year defendant directed him to purchase 20 China Sugar Refinery Co. Shares at $8.81 each.

It was a forward transaction and the shares which were bought from Li Po Leung, should have been taken up on June 25. Defendant was unable for some reason to take the shares at that date—he supposed he had not the money—so he borrowed $3,950, to take up the shares, which were handed back as security for the money.

Upon this amount, it was agreed that defendant should pay interest at the rate of $1 a share each settling day. On July 31 defendant paid $50 on account of interest and on Sept. 5 another $50. From June 14 to October 1, 1914, $138 33 became due for interest. Defendant was then still unable to pay off the purchase money and so he instructed plaintiff to sell the shares, which he did, at the price of $7.33 to a Mr. Ezra. Brokerage was charged, $25 on the purchase and $25 on the sale. Payment was put off from time to time and it was at one period agreed that the matter should go to arbitration, but defendant delayed so much that plaintiff's patience was exhausted and he issued a writ.

Plaintiff's attorney gave evidence and in the course of cross-examination by Mr. Goldring said that the money which he advanced to defendant for the purchase of the shares was lent to him by Mr. R. Ezra, Mr. Ehrenfeld did not know of this transaction at the time he lent the money. Mr. Ezra was not a member of the Stock Exchange, but his (witness's) brother was.

Mr. Goldring, in opening, said he would impugn the transaction throughout as one entered into by plaintiff's attorney as an outside broker, acting for Mr. Ezra throughout.

Mr. Haywood said the transaction was arranged not by the attorney but by plaintiff's chief clerk, another broker.

Mr. Goldring submitted that the local Stock Exchange being an association to which members were elected by merit a member could not delegate his authority any more than he or Mr. Haywood could delegate their authority to a "ricksha coolie" to sign a bill for a cup of tea in the "Kong-kong Club."

His Lordship intimated that he attached no importance to the point of stock or share membership or practice.

At this stage Mr. Goldring, who had been requested by his Lordship at four o'clock (the hour at which the court normally rises) to open his case, informed his Lordship that he was afraid he could not cover all his points at this sitting. He had been up since 6, drilling at Belcher's, and was very tired.

His Lordship explained that he had suggested a longer sitting because he had a great deal about the Court being concerned, but whenever he tried to push things a little further, he was adjourned the hearing till to-day week.

Mr. Goldring: (to plaintiff's attorney)

Say your best or get outside stock brokers to finance him over difficult deal. How I mean he sometimes gets outside brokers to finance him? Yes.

Mr. Goldring intimated that he would not be calling witnesses unless it was the practice of the Hongkong Stock Exchange. The Exchange appeared to have a memorandum and articles of association, but so far had passed no rules at all.

Mr. Ezra said he advanced the money and as he could not get it back he bought the shares, which he had been given as security. He said the shares eventually for $7.14 loss brokerage.

Mr. Goldring: You have a running account with Mr. Silas, haven't you? But you lend him money when he wants it?—No; when it suits me.

Mr. Goldring in opening, said he would impugn the transaction throughout as one entered into by plaintiff's attorney as an outside broker, acting for Mr. Ezra throughout.

Mr. Haywood said the transaction was arranged not by the attorney but by plaintiff's chief clerk, another broker.

Mr. Goldring submitted that the local Stock Exchange being an association to which members were elected by merit a member could not delegate his authority any more than he or Mr. Haywood could delegate their authority to a "ricksha coolie" to sign a bill for a cup of tea in the "Kong-kong Club."

His Lordship intimated that he attached no importance to the point of stock or share membership or practice.
